PROFILE

Bahraini sales professional with experience in one of the most demanding markets there is: high-value equipment sold to ministries, government bodies and large industrial companies. I am used to long sales cycles, formal tenders, careful negotiation and clients who ask hard questions. I now want to bring that discipline to real estate, where trust, patience and clear explanation close deals, and where I want to build a long-term career.

WHAT I BRING TO REAL ESTATE

- Decision-maker access: meetings with ministers, undersecretaries and senior managers at major Bahraini companies.
- Negotiation and contracts: tender files, proposals, agreements and supplier negotiation, from first offer to signature.
- Consultative selling: understanding the client's real need first, then matching the right solution and explaining it simply.
- Financing options: structured trial, rental and revenue-share offers that helped hesitant buyers say yes.
- Follow-up and after-sales: staying with the client after the sale, which builds referrals and repeat business.
- Bahrain network: established relationships across government, industry and the business community.
