PROFILE

Bahraini sales professional with experience in one of the most demanding markets there is: high-value equipment sold to ministries, government bodies and large industrial companies. I am used to long sales cycles, formal tenders, careful negotiation and clients who ask hard questions. I now want to bring that discipline to real estate, where trust, patience and clear explanation close deals, and where I want to build a long-term career.

WHAT I BRING TO REAL ESTATE

Decision-maker access
Meetings with ministers, undersecretaries and senior managers at major Bahraini companies.

Consultative selling
Understanding the client's real need first, then matching the right solution and explaining it simply.

Follow-up and after-sales
Staying with the client after the sale, which builds referrals and repeat business.

Negotiation and contracts
Tender files, proposals, agreements and supplier negotiation, from first offer to signature.

Financing options
Structured trial, rental and revenue-share offers that helped hesitant buyers say yes.

Bahrain network
Established relationships across government, industry and the business community.

WHY REAL ESTATE

Selling a property is a serious decision for the client, much like the decisions I have worked on with government and industry: large budgets, several stakeholders, careful comparison and a need for trust. Those are the conditions where I do my best work. I bring a tested sales method, a strong Bahrain network, and the digital skills to present properties and follow up with clients professionally.

> I am looking for a real estate team that values honest advice, careful follow-up and long-term client relationships.
